

IOS 10

You might see a message that there's not enough space on your iPhone, iPad, or iPod touch. These steps can help.

During a wireless update, you might see a message that says the update can't be installed because it needs more space than you have on your device. If you see this message, there are a few ways you can update your device:

1. Plug your device into your computer and update using iTunes.
2. Manually remove content from your device and try to update again.

Update using iTunes

To download the latest version of iOS using iTunes, follow these steps:

1. Install the latest version of iTunes on your computer.
2. Plug your device into your computer.
3. In iTunes, select your device.
4. In the Summary pane, click Check for Update.
5. Click Download and Update.

If you see a different alert message during an update, learn how to resolve it.

Delete content manually

If there isn't enough space to download and install an update, iOS 9 tries to make more space. It temporarily removes some downloadable parts of installed apps. But in some cases, it's necessary to manually delete some content.

In Usage Settings menu, see how much space your apps use & delete the ones you don't need. Re-download your purchased apps. Follow these steps:

Tap Settings > General > Storage & iCloud Usage > Manage Storage.

Select any app to see how much space it uses, and tap Delete App to remove it. Some apps, such as Music & Videos, let you delete parts of their documents & data.

Install the iOS update again. Tap Settings > General > Software Update.

You can also reduce the size of your Photo library by turning on iCloud Photo Library & Optimizing your device storage.
